

The Bangladesh Project

The Bangladesh Project is a premier DMV band known for their electrifying, genre-defying sound that fuses Hip-Hop, Alternative Rock, Reggae, Soul, and R&B. They not only produce original music but also cover notable tunes with an authentic twist. They have backed notable acts like Georgia Anne Muldrow and Dudley Perkins (Declaime). Committed to nurturing local talent, they collaborate with artists such as Amadaye, Jahiti of Brown FISH, Jeneba Suma and K Mack to create unique experiences.

The Bangladesh Project, captivates audiences with their dynamic performances. Their unique blend of influences, have solidified their position as one of the most innovative bands on the music scene.

The band consists of a selected number of core members and a revolving cast of musicians who fill out the Project's sound depending on need. The Bangladesh Project can perform as a lean quartet or a nine-piece band focusing on a particular event, performance or recording session.
